Re: Zero Milestone – Little Rock, Pulaski County (Address is 623 Woodlane Avenue)

Dear Ms. Richardson:

I am happy to inform you that the State Review Board of the Arkansas Historic Preservation Program (AHPP), an agency of the Department of Arkansas Heritage, has approved the inclusion of the above referenced property to the Arkansas Register of Historic Places. This register was created to provide formal recognition for the state's historic properties that are of documentable significance but do not meet the criteria for listing in the National Register of Historic Places. All properties in our state which are listed in the National Register automatically enter the Arkansas register. We feel that Arkansas can be proud to have a large and growing representation in both registers. As a tangible link between our past and our present, these historic properties play an important role in portraying Arkansas's heritage. This designation does not restrict the owner's right to use, modify, or dispose of said property.

In addition to the pride and prestige that comes with this recognition, listing in the Arkansas Register is important for a number of reasons. Technical advice relating to all aspects of restoration, adaptive reuse, and renovation or older structures is available from the AHPP upon request by owner. In addition, properties listed in the Arkansas Register are eligible to apply for Option 1 Historic Preservation Restoration Grant funding through AHPP.

Again, I thank you for your interest in our state's resources. If you have questions concerning this nomination or any aspect of historic preservation in Arkansas, please do not hesitate to contact us.

Sincerely,
